I had one chance to interview the hottest movie star on the planet...and I almost blew it. By any serious journalists' standards, I did. I showed up late (not my fault), my skirt covered in pink icing (again, not my fault), with the tags from my new shirt still hanging out the back (okay, that one was my fault). I was plenty memorable but not for the right reasons. Which makes me wonder why Grayson Moore just walked through the door of my small-town coffee shop, looking sexy as sin and searching for...me? I'm flattered, really, but having him in town, riding behind him on his motorcycle, breaking down and accepting one date, will mess up all my plans. Motorcycle-riding movie stars are not on the approved list of men for me to date, and I need my father in a good mood when I finally bring my estranged sister back home for Christmas. *formerly titled Please, Stay Dreaming of Her Movie Star is Book Three in the Southern Kind of Love series by Georgia native, Palmer Jones. The awkwardness. The anxiety. The sweaty palms. Ah, the joys of a blind date. But then there's the laughing about it afterward with friends, and doesn't that make it all better? A hilarious collection of more than 50 true stories of dates gone crazily wrong—though sometimes with a happy ending—My Blind Date Went Blind! is as much fun as sharing stories with a best friend. Here's the date who shows up with his soon-to-be ex-wife in the backseat. The date who thinks it's sexy to eat a bowl of noodles in one mouthful, tearing off the dangling ends with both hands. The date who can't pay for the $2.00 matinee when he discovers the price went up to $3.00. The forgetful woman who administers the same pop quiz—Can you spell "segue"? Who is Frank Lloyd Wright?—two dates in a row. The rabid Harry Potter fan who just won't stop calling (with updates about his therapeutic progress). And the date of the title, who loses his vision in the middle of dinner—a literal moment of hysterical blindness—and needs to be walked home. (Oh, and he wasn't able to pay the check either, of course.) With sidebars including Worst Pickup Lines Ever and Very Bad Movie Choices for First Dates, it is the perfect antidote to the dating blahs: You just have to laugh.
